A MASQUE OF DEAD FLOREN-
TINES BY MAURICE HEWLETT
PRINTED FOR AND PUBLISHED BY THOMAS B MOSHER PORTLAND MAINE
MDCCCCXI

FOREWORD

WHEN, in The Bibelot for April, 1896, we printed certain Songs of Dead Florentines — a series of Italian lyrics in large part done into English by the late John Addington Symonds — it was, confessedly, with the title in mind of a book but recently issued.<sup>1</sup>

A few months earlier, Earthwork Out of Tuscany, being Impressions and Translations of Maurice Hewlett, had been brought out by the same publishers, — a book dismissed with scant, disparaging estimate in The Athenæum, — though now seen to have held within its all too few pages one indubitable little “Imaginary Portrait,” fit to be ranked immediately after the four elaborately finished cabinet-pieces of the same name and genre by Walter Pater. As for the Masque it apparently fell still-born from the press: to the best of our knowledge and belief no criticism whatever, in any journal of note in England or America, being passed upon it.<sup>1</sup>

From our personal view-point Mr. Hewlett's morality-play, if one chooses to call it so, is a brilliant conception, bringing together as it does, the august shades of the men and women of the Renaissance. It is in very truth "a masque of death's old comedy," and a brief analysis may not be considered unwelcome to those who now read it for the first time.

The First Part opens with an invocation of Dante; then Beatrice is seen, followed by Laura and Petrarch, and, quite out of historic sequence, Boccace and his Fiammetta. Then the three ladies of old time dance and recede from sight, while the Chorus recites their worth and the renown of their lovers; whereupon Giotto, Corso Donati, Farinata, Buondelmonte, Guido Cavalcante and the Lady Piccarda Donati appear. Lastly comes Fra Beato Angelico, the scene closing with Chorus giving voice to approval of his lovely life and quiet end.

<sup>1</sup> We reprint the text in its entirety. As Mr. Batten's illustrations do not lend themselves to satisfactory reproduction they have been omitted. With the lapse of time it is unlikely that this thin oblong quarto will lose value either in the eyes of the collector or the lover of poetry for its own sake.

Part Second deals with "Love and Italy and Art their fosterling," and immediately we have speech with Fra Lippo Lippi; then enter Pico della Mirandola, Bartolommeo Scala, Lionardo da Vinci, all voicing the bitter outcry of the Psalmist. Simonetta now makes moan over the dead days of her youth, and her lover Giuliano, with others of the house of Medici pass over the stage with Lorenzo, greatest of them all, upon whom the Three Reproaches habited as bent old women heap their curses for his misdeeds. Poliziano, who was with the Magnificent when he died, then recites an elegy and is dismissed into darkness. We now see Cosimo di Medici, hard upon whose footsteps follows Savonarola with the two who most loved and hated him; and last comes Botticelli whose lament is broken in upon by the Chorus with a sinister dirge of its own. Then the Sun shines out and Luca della Robbia speaks in his own praise which is fully justified by the ever-discerning Chorus. Quatrains are now respectively recited by Macchiavelli, Cellini and Pulci, and the burden of Florence, her destiny and doom, sums itself up in a final invocation of Michael Angelo. So passes the glory of the City of Lilies.

A MASQUE OF DEAD FLORENTINES

*Here you see, as in a glass,
Death and Florence grip and pass.
One was scornful as a maid
In her bravery fresh array'd :
One was brawny, hearted brass —
Which look'd longer, Death or lass ?*

*Gentles, you and Death and I
Have a friendly fall to try.
He is masterful and plays
Steadily ; looks not for praise,
Heeds no blame. Your head is high,
High as mine — but by and bye ?*

THREE REPROACHES

KING DEATH

THE MASQUE

FIRST PART

The Scene is an open loggia giving upon a garden in winter, with leafless trees, and cypresses. The rain stands in pools; over all is the sougning of a great wind. A fitful sunshine comes and goes.

AFTER THE SECOND SOUNDING

The Chorus of twelve poets and twelve ladies, robed alike in sad-coloured habits, comes into the garden, and looking towards a terminal statue of Memory which is in it, says this :

I

Of quiet death.

WE have lost what we had won,
Love's reward for love's work done.
Sightless Memory receiv'd
No news, if we joy'd or griev'd.
Were we lov'd? She lov'd us not.

Pity-worth? Behov'd us not.
Yet we count us happier
Than are they whose keener star
Shone about them while they stayed
Here with us; and when they strayed
Forbore Death their names to hide:
We are they who quietly died.

II

Invocation of the great ones.

Here begins that crimson line,
Greater none, nor more divine.
By thy grimness of achieving,
By the scope of thy conceiving,
God-creative, Heaven-cleaving,
Alighieri! lift thy head
From among the sheeted dead.
Buonarroti! God is just;
Come thou too to close the trust:

Tell the story
How the glory
Of thy burgh was pash'd in dust.

*Dante Alighieri passes, in sober red habit and

DANTE

The first to speak in Florence, Florence spurn'd
My song and service. From home to outland turn'd,
I sensed God's secrets, eating salted bread.
God woke my love by death: they crown'd me,
' dead.

CHORUS

O lasso!

Woe, the dead poet! Woe, the alien tomb,
And brooding brow shadow'd by all Hell's gloom!
How was that City proud and confident

That past him by. Alas! all 's woe upon her!
Say, wouldst thou know his heart? His heart was riven:

To God one half, to Beatrice half was given.
But since God saw Heav'n bare without her soul,
He took her; and the cloven heart was whole.

Beatrice Portinari passes. She is in a clear green garment, and holds her hand to her heart.

BEATRICE

My spirit, like a sigh, just flutter'd o'er
Our homestead city; melted then to soar
As altar-smoke. But one who 'd mourn'd me wed, Follow'd me from that Feast. I liv'd, being dead.

CHORUS

I

God saw her beautiful, and lov'd, and took her!
How dark the city sate

(That joyed of late)

When she, that youngest angel-shape, forsook her.

II

Of Dante and Beatrice.

This is that man who thought it well
Alone to tread the gulfs of Hell,
Who look'd on naked sin beneath
The mask of life, and call'd it death.

Nor lost he there his latest breath,
Nor all the pity he had shed ;
But it was heap'd on him, and led
Him outward from the cavern's teeth.

And that great utterance he said
Liveth, and he who saw the dead
Cannot taste death ; for Death's hand shook
To feel the burden of his Book.

And this is She at whose death-moan
The wasted City sat alone ;
And She whose giving up of life
Forewarn'd him take her soul to wife.

III

Of Song, the miraculous child.

From the nuptial of Spirit and Spirit,
From the girdle that bound her young heart,
Unloosed by the tongue of his art,
Sprang the burning miraculous Child
All soothsay that was to inherit,
To nourish and foster and spread,
Till all kindreds should leap when he smiled,
Or panting run whither he led
At the spell of his treacherous merit.
O Song, with the throat of a bird
And loins and core of a youth ;

O Song, crystal harbour of truth,
That sprang from Love mated with Power!
O Song, when thy harping was blurr'd,
Thoughtest thou, O Song, in thy ruth,
What blood had water'd thy flower
Ere yet one tendril had stirr'd?
What paling of virginal bosoms,
What prayerful, and tearful, and sooth
Uppiving of strength, that thy blossoms
Should bud in that clamorous hour?

But Song set his delicate feet
In the way of the World and the mire;
Song tasted the fruit of desire,
And laugh'd at the clouding of eyes
(For he knew love's filming was sweet).
So Song held revel, and loud
Sang he with passionate cries:
And his raiment was golden and proud.
Thus the cup of his wrath was complete.

IV

Song as a child was full of peace
Laid in the bosom of Beatrice.
O sweet lady, O griev'd heart,
How fared Song and his brother Art?

Laura comes, a youthful Matron in a high-waisted gown, a child at either hand. She looks patiently before her, with good courage.

LAURA

I gave my love to him who lov'd my face,
I did him wifely service with good grace ;
Nor lean'd aside to what my Poet said :
But I may thank him now that I am dead.

Petrarch. He has a laurel-wreath, and bears a little crystal urn wherein is his own heart.

PETRARCH

My voice was as the swan's that dirgeth death ;
My joys were frail things, lighter than a breath.

But, like the night, I froze them to a brede —
They wove me crowns thereof, and wrapt me
dead.

CHORUS

The Chorus tells of his consolation.

“Merci,” she laugh’d him once; a glove discarded,
A parting, and a meeting;
With these his poet’s hunger was rewarded;
But in her greeting,
Or when the light of her died down and flutter’d
As stars at dawning,
Or at her coming various song-birds utter’d
The rosy birth of morning;
Or when he knelt and took her hand’s warm
sheathing,
His heart on fire
Shot golden words unto his lips, which breathing
Did lift him higher
Than ever long assuagement of desire.

Boccace passes, crowned with flowers, a wreath'd thyrsus in his hand.

BOCCACE

Heavy the blossoms, sultry-sweet the wine,
And all the air gold-dusted with sun-shine.
I found a girl's warm bosom for my head,
And — God was good! I lov'd till I was dead.

Fiammetta passes. She is robed like a King's daughter, and carries a pair of golden shears.

FIAMMETTA

I brought my burning wealth up from the South,
I kiss'd him with the kisses of my mouth :
The low slow laugh when Southern love is fed
Was longer mine : I cloyed him, he is dead.

CHORUS

Of Boccace's book.

And of the sweetness of his Lady.

Yes, thou art dead, Boccace!

Thy garden-plot, a hundred starry flowers,

Yet springs, is fragrant yet of soft light loves,
Love languid, love askance, love under bowers
Of myrtle trees, love eager, love that proves
How love may ache, alas !
And she, thy confident fair
That set her gleaming teeth
To the rind of thy fruits, laid bare
Her white throat soft as death
To warm to thy amorous breath.
She let down the pride of her hair,
A flood and tangle of gold,
And sat embower'd there
Like pale Queen Helen of old :
Scarlet her lips, but the white of her globed
breasts is untold !

The three Ladies dance a stately solemn measure, to this versing :

The Measure.

Beatrice, the white Lady,
Lead our mystic pageantry ;

Laura, slim and carcanetted,
Shy as violets dew-wetted ;

Fiammetta, lissom, young,
Golden as the arum's tongue,
Follow in the antic round,
Eyes demurely cast to ground.

High-born, stately, queens, we pass
Treading daintily the grass.

BEATRICE

I was nine when I was wooed,
Never word my poet could.

LAURA

Wedded wife was I, my poet
Won my looks but could not know it.

FIAMMETTA

Great King's daughter though I were,
I chose my poet debonnair.

THE THREE LADIES

Twine white arms, tread the measure :
Ours the grace and theirs the treasure.

Let the ghostly ladies pass
Like the mist on springing grass.

BEATRICE

I was wedded ere my years
Number'd twelve: I shed no tears.

LAURA

Children bore I to my lord
As thy years; I sighed no word.

FIAMMETTA

Wedded I, but love is free :
Not my husband pleased me.

THE THREE LADIES

All the years and all the blisses
Come and go like children's kisses.

We are dead, and now, alas !
 Shadows of us haunt the grass.

The three Ladies pass away; but the Chorus, looking still upon their poets, says this :

I

Of the Great Three.

Lo! now, the mighty triad of old Florence
 Mewed like strong eagles in Death's pale abhor-rence.

The first set patient at his prison-bars,
 Look'd up and saw his lady with the stars ;
 The next, slow-pacing, holding him apart,
 Pierc'd his own breast to Laura in his heart ;
 And last the Reveller, flushing high, did pass,
 Look'd down on Fiammetta couch'd in grass.
 O strength, that scann'd all Heaven, and Man,
 and Earth !
 O glory, that could give such seeing birth.

II

Of the Duomo.

They built a shrine anon to speak those three,
Soaring aloft, dome-shadow'd like a world,
Deep-founded as the good brown Earth their fee,
And set about with massy, rich-emppearl'd
Smooth marble (like the soul of Poetry),
And winding leafage of vine and olive curl'd,
Down drooping o'er the column'd tracery.
How goodly shone the vasty fabric hurl'd
Tow'rd Heaven up, yet cleaving sturdily
To Earth's broad bosom and the grey street's track,
Barr'd like a great moth's wing with rose and black,
Knew all men best when (breath'd by God) its flower
Spear'd up of his desire, the lily-tower.

III

Of new Shades.

Break off, break off, my heart, here are new comers,

Perpetual youth and age perpetual ;
One with the bashful bloom of early summers,
The other gnaw'd on like the years that fall.
Who is this dreamer with his dreams at call,
And happy morning face, and wholesome breath ?
Who this lean vagrant, choking down his gall
As he should grudge to void it upon Death ?

The first Giotto, figured as a young man carrying a shock of spring boughs.

GIOTTO

The hills that call each other thro' the night,
The stars that sing of silence, the trees of light,
I knew! I knew! "Thy brethren they," He saith.

There came a sister soon, meek Sister Death.

The other is Corso Donati, like an old man with blood upon his hair.

CORSO

I had the fire-streak'd blood no pomp could hold
Of Gothic blazon or Cerchi's dirty gold.
A ban-dog hounding sheep, I fought and bled
That, living, Florence fear'd me : I hush her, dead.

CHORUS

One doth make what one doth mar ;
One brings peace, another war.
See what Florence's children are —
One bit her, one did kiss the scar.

A company of four Shades comes next.

Farinata in his armour, with a naked sword ;

FARINATA

The fire that rages in me outburns Hell ;
I am the pride of Florence !

Buondelmonte in a white silken doublet ;

BUONDELMONTE

I rang a knell
That day they drain'd me whiter than my vest :
After 't was Florence bled.

Guido Cavalcante with a lute, and a peacock's feather stuck in his cap.

GUIDO

My way was best.
From lip to lip I past, from grove to grove :
I am like Florence ; they call me Light o' Love.

Last Piccarda Donati with the Minoress' cord sandals.

PICCARDA

Reared in a goshawk's nest, I flew to peace ;
Plighted to sin, I wedded the white Christ :
His arm upheld me when they marr'd our ease,
For I was stricken whiter than the mist.

In a sudden ray of light a single Shade comes to close the tale.

*Fra Beato Angelico, in black and white habit.
He carries a lily in one hand. On his shoulder burns a star.*

FRA BEATO

The mystic flame-enwapt Jerusalem
Was set before me like a clouded gem.
I trod the ways of Florence: steep the tread,
But leading swiftly to the blessed dead.

CHORUS

*Of lovely life.
Of quick recompense.*

Thou shalt be called the Son of Peace
And Star of Bethlehem :
In thee the ardent striver
Found placid requiem ;
In thee, the still contriver,
In thee, the honest liver,

Dreaming thy soaring ecstasies
Within the hum of men.
Like to the soothing of doves,
Like to the plashing of rain,
So as the cloud-shadow moves
To sober the Sun's beating pain,
Thy music, thy chrism, thy prayers,
Bade Hope lift again :
Hope of wings fretty with fire,
Of eyes looking out to the deep
Heart of the azure, and higher —
Yearning to creep
Into the folds of the mantle of God,
Haply to sleep.

The light endures for a space, and then goes out as the Frate's shade passes. The rain descends and veils the scene. The end of the first part.

---

THE SECOND PART

Begins under a cold clear sky. Enters the Herald, a young boy in a short Greekish cloak and Phrygian cap. He carries a Pan-pipe and speaks eagerly this sonnet.

Of new promise.

THE Tale is now of Love and Italy
And Art their fosterling, of that new time
When first the Sun scatter'd the hoary rime
Of older fashions, and leapt eagerly
Forward and up to flood the new with glee.
Then, when the world was young and saw in rhyme
And colour move all Nature, the sublime
Prism and chord of God lay plain to see.
Then every maid held godhead, every flower
A sacrament, the fever and old dread
Of living — ecstasy! of loving — power!
So Love call'd from the grave the mighty dead:

And he that voiced the music of the spheres,
Plato the prophet, murmured down the years.

CHORUS

Of fulfilment.

The boy is a shade,
And the cup he quaffs
Is down to the lees :
Only Death laughs.

First comes Lippo Lippi alone, figured as a young Satyr in a monk's frock.

LIPPO

I peered for God and found him underneath
A girl's shy eyes. Up then came Master Death, Saying, "You monk, bow down to me instead ;
Here is no god for you." My wench was dead.

Then come three scholars together.

First Gio. Pico of Mirandola. He is a youth in soft raiment, reading in a Hebrew book.

PICO

Men call'd me Paragon; I challenged Rome;
Rome frown'd, I fled: on many a dusty tome
I ponder'd, yet found not the true Godhead;
But, loving much, God came and laid me dead.

Then Bartolommeo Scala in his burgher's dress, and spectacles pushed on to his forehead.

SCALA

They dubb'd me inexpert, and set me slave
At lacquey work: my heart to Greek I gave.
Had I that fair sort that I coveted?
I strove, I strain'd to reach, I clutch'd — 't was dead.

*Then Lionardo da Vinci with a long white beard.
He walks painfully with a crutch.*

LIONARDO

Too curious! Art short solace gave my spirit.
Too curious! Power contented not my merit.
Too curious! Life itself me wearied.
The living tire to death: we wait, we dead.

O foolish Wise!

Blind, blind, blind!
As sheep in the rain.
Blind as the Worm that beguiled
The Mother of Cain.

Then comes La Simonetta, as a virgin of lovely sorrowful countenance, in a white robe. Round her loins is a black snake that carries his tail ever in his mouth. She bears a chaplet of yew; and is attended by seven young maids in mourning weeds.

SIMONETTA

Grief of Simonetta.

Once a virgin of virgins,
Crown'd as with fire, and pale,
I stoopt to my own undoing,
I lay as corn to the flail.

THE SEVEN

As a lily-stalk snapt by hail
She fell to her girdle's undoing,
Nor tears could avail.

SIMONETTA

As the hawk on his wrist he was hard,
As the quail's my blithesomeness froze ;
I stood asham'd in the pasture,
My eyes were wide as the roe's.

THE SEVEN

With her lapful of flowers she uprose :
All tenderly white was her vesture,
She blush'd like a rose.

SIMONETTA

I was woo'd in the time of wild crocus,
I sank with a trembling of knees ;
He took me up on his pillion
And rode away thro' the trees.

THE SEVEN

The willow must bend to the breeze !
She pined in her king's pavilion,
She longed for her peace.
Oh, the land swept black by the shower,
The lash and the rain !
She bow'd like a tired sweet flower,
She moan'd for her pain !

SIMONETTA

Because, being fairer than the dawn, I trod
The flowery way that lures a soul from God,
And gaged my youth against man's hardihead ;
Therefore I wear the bleak smile of the dead.

CHORUS

Blind.

Blind, blind, blind !
As monk in his cell ;
Blind as the Corn-mother's child
That played by the mouth of Hell.

Then come the house of Medici. First is Giuliano de' Medici in hunter's green. He carries a broken shaft in his hand. Following him are seven lads (sons of princes) dressed in sables.

GIULIANO

Retribution.

Once as a tiger-whelp I was athirst,
And gnaw'd the breast where kindly I was nurs'd.

But thirstier the blades that cut me red,
And sent me shaggy to the secret dead.

THE SEVEN PRINCES

Swart as the heart of the South,
Proud as the rock-springing pine,
Sweet water cool'd never thy drouth,
Nor fruit of the vine!
Last of old Cosimo's line,
Cut off quick in thy youth,
Thy blood was outpour'd like wine;
They show'd thee no ruth,
Who in life had none for the old, nor the roses
of youth.

Then Clarice Orsini; a grey-hair'd woman bowed beneath a golden yoke.

CLARICE

I had small solace for my life of anguish, Pluck'd out from Rome and set in Florence to languish:

A pride that froze my tears ere they could shed,
And children — would they were as I am, dead!

And then Lorenzo as a king crowned with thorns and holding a leaden sceptre.

LORENZO

I am that Medici, swart, keen, and wanton,
That spent all Florence on the thin-lipt phantom
Of lust so dry it never could be fed :
At last, unshrived, still burning, I fell dead.

CHORUS

Woe! Woe! the staring hearth : woe! the tired city,
Weary of bloodshed, vacant-eyed for pity!
Woe to brown Pisa! Havoc on Volterra!
Woe, all Woe upon us!

The Reproaches.

Three grey women hold the gate,
With sudden firelit eyes, and hate

Cradled in each beaten breast.
Stay! Heed them; one out-hates the rest.

Three Reproaches, like to bent women, appear stretching out arms towards the shade of Lorenzo.

THE FIRST REPROACH

Pisa.

First woe was when the sword was set,
Sword and Fire to my own young brood.
Never a woe like the mother's cry
That watches in chains the ebb of her blood —
Woe to thee! Pisa was I.

THE SECOND REPROACH

The maids' dowry.

Next woe was the shaming of maids,
Stript to the smock and sold to sin.
Never such woe as to lay the lure,
Smirch and soil what once was clean —
Woe! who shall ravish the poor.

THE THIRD REPROACH

Tyranny.

Third woe was the land in chains,
Golden seeming and brave in silk.
Where is woe as for brother and brother
Bruise the bosom that gave them milk —
Woe! who traffick'd his mother.

Ere the Chorus can curse him, Poliziano comes behind him with a muffled rote, and weeping.

POLIZIANO

Elegy.

Grant me, gods, a fount of tears,
So that night and day
Weeping I may drown old grief,
Mourning quench the years.
So the widow'd turtle may
Give her heart relief ;
So the fainting snowy swan,
So the nightingale,
All their sorrows, utter lonely passion, do bewail.

Woe for us, and woe, and woe !
Grief is bow'd and grey ;
Jove hath carv'd our goodly Tree
With his thunderblow !
Woe the Muses' broken lay,
Woe the melody !
Woe, Apollo, woe God Pan,
Woe, ye Sisters Nine,
Woe, green-kirtled Dryads, woe, my Bacchus, to thy vine !
Mourning let me quench the years,
And my grief to drown,
Grant me, gods, a waterflood,
Grant a fount of tears.

CHORUS

To Lorenzo.

One there was
Who, loving much, did weep for thee. So pass :
Death may not smite

The lamp to shiver quite
That little flame within that was a Poet's light.

Next comes Cosimo, Pater Patriæ, an old man richly habited, having the ears of Midas.

COSIMO

Labour'd I well, that bound the state to mine
In gyves that chafed, but held throughout the line?
They crown'd me with a name our foes might dread,
But curs'd me for my sons when I was dead.

CHORUS

The little Great.

Blind, blind, blind!
As a bird in the snow.
Blind as the king that did cherish
The son that wrought him a woe.

Savonarola, carrying a smouldering torch.

SAVONAROLA

God set in me a heart to burn like pain,
And Florence fed the fire. In vain, in vain,
I augur'd life; the fire was heap'd; I led
The way for Florence: Florence mock'd me dead.

Following is his enemy, Fra Francesco the Minorite, carrying a distorting glass.

FRA FRANCESCO

For Francis' sake I spurn'd him of Saint Mark:
Is that soul sure that dareth him embark
On death's dull sea that death may serve hatred?
I know not what they won, nor care, being dead.

Next the Frate's Champion, Fra Domenico, cowed in white, with an anchor.

FRA DOMENICO

I trusted in the prophet sent from God;
Side to his side the way to death I trod.

The flame leapt heavenward — O true he said !
Our spirits soar'd ; we left but ashes dead.

Sandro Botticelli, holding a hollow sphere.

SANDRO

Latest of all, and loneliest, I endured
In heaviness of days with light obscured :
Green earth grown grey, sun cold, the comely head
Of my life's flower snapt short — Art with her,
dead !

The Chorus breaks in upon him with this lament, what time the rain descends and the wind blows shrill.

The dirge.

What shall it profit, O Man,
That the pitiful soil of thy years,
Sterile, acheth a span
Of waste furrow'd by tears ?
Waste sown with tears,

Flowering pale for a span,
Wither'd anon like the years ;
What profit, O Man ?

Of Loss.

Twenty thou groanest to learn,
Twenty thou thinkest to fly,
Twenty drag, and thy turn
Cometh to die.

What profit, O Man,
What the harvest of years,
Strown like corn to the fan,
Cut as with sickle the ears ?

And Profit.

Corn that is sown with tears,
Winnow'd as chaff by the fan ;
Gone the harvest of years : —
Death is profit, O Man !

When the Sun gleams again, you see Luca della Robbia, clothed in apple-green, with a bunch of yellow and blue flowers in his hand.

LUCA

Mine was a glad small spirit unafraid ;
I breathed it out, the stone walls flower'd, and made

Florence a garden. So without a dread
I laid my tools aside and blossom'd, dead.

CHORUS

Praise of Luca.

Thou shalt be called the Son of Man
And Spirit of the Earth,
That met young Love and kiss'd her
And wreath'd her lips with mirth ;
April with eyes aglister,
Green May her buxom sister,
Shy loves and tender fruitage
Were children of thy birth.

Wherein, perhaps, the dirge is answer'd.

With eyes seeking the Sun,
And heart loving the Day,
Knowing no evil to shun,
Guileless, walking the way,
Breathing the secret of children and flowers
Into thy clay!

Man with the faith of a child,
Child with a strength superhuman;
Lover, that told of the Virgin most mild,
Wedded to no man:
Holy art thou, that could call her arise
God, but a woman!

Niccolò Macchiavelli, bearing a skull wreath'd with flowers.

MACCHIAVEL

That kings might feast I sweated God away;
To insolent stripling feet I bow'd my grey

Wise brows. A smirk, a shrug, a wagging head —
I used this way : they use it on me dead.

Benvenuto Cellini, blindfold.

BENVENUTO

The glory of their prinedoms, and their power
Who go in purple, I knew my little hour.
What time my brain-trap gript them all, I led Whither I would. What profiteth me dead ?

Luigi Pulci, gnawing a stone.

PULCI

Let who wins laugh : I laugh'd at Heaven and Earth.

Dante saw Grief and lov'd her ; I chose Mirth.
Mirth and I laugh'd till we were out of breath,
And left one laughing still — the jester, Death.

CHORUS

The burden of Florence.

A boy singing
His love and pain ;
The watch-bell ringing,
Blood shed like rain !
A dreamy maid,
And a voice like a cry —
“ Betrayed, betrayed !
How shall we die ? ”
Sigh, wind, sigh.

The squire at hawking,
The grass in flower ;
Shame stalking
In the lady's bower.
“ Love like a drought
Doth scorch and dry :
My heart is out,
Now let me die ! ”
Sigh, wind, sigh.

All the burning
Of all the South,
Turn'd to mourning
Thy singing mouth.
The fire kindled,
Soar'd to the sky ;
The song dwindled,
The lute lay by.
Sigh, wind, sigh.

“ How shall I sing
With my lady cold ?
She died in the Spring ;
I am grown old.”
This is the load
Of the singer's cry —
“ If God is God
He will let me die !”
Sigh, wind, sigh.

Then the Chorus invokes the last Shade.

CHORUS

Finis coronat!

Now, last and greatest of these,

Buonarroti the Seer,

Wielder of dark mysteries,

Graver that knew no peer!

Poet, thinker in stone,

Painter, Maker of men,

Naked, silent, alone,

Gods walking again!

Thee, last, who art first,

Thee, King, we invoke;

Tell of Florence accurs'd,

Her dolorous stroke.

Michael Angelo comes crown'd; his robe full of weeping eyes.

MICHAEL ANGELO

The gaunt long life of unfulfill'd desire,

'The hireling's ashes on the poet's fire!

I prayed in stone. Their scorn was on their head :
In me they slew the last of their great dead.

CHORUS

Florence was.

Blind, blind, blind !
As the owl in the day :
Florence was, and is not ;
She passeth away !

BIBLIOGRAPHICAL NOTE

A Masque of Dead Florentines, / wherein some of Death's Choicest Pieces, and / the Great Game that he played therewith, / are fruitfully set forth. / [Motto:
"Fiorenza mia, ben puoi esser contenta."] / [*Publishers'
Device.*] / By Maurice Hewlett / Pictured by J. D. Batten
/ J. M. Dent & Co. / — London, / MDCCLXXXV.

Oblong, 4to, cloth, gilt top. Pp. viii-1+52.

To this first edition dedicated "To my proved companion of Florentine days and other seasons of fair and foul weather — this northern fruit to my wife," Mr. Hewlett added the following prefatory note:

"It will sufficiently be seen that this poem does not treat of Florentine history; that it flouts chronology. Nullum tempus occurrit regi. May this maxim be twisted to further the poet? The painters adopted it when they yoked Lucrece, Susanna, and the daughters of Danaus to Chastity's chariot; and Dante found Ulysses in the same pit with Guido da Montefeltro. Let this serve as my excuse for setting Giotto after Boccace, and for worse discourtesies to Time's travels."
